David Bader Joins Georgia Tech for HPC Work

David A. Bader has joined Georgia Institute of Technology's College of Computing, effective August 15, 2005. David will advance Georgia Tech's capabilities in the area of computational science, high-performance computing, and biomedical engineering.

Prior to this, he was a faculty member at the University of New Mexico from 1998 -- 2005. He received his Ph.D. in 1996 from The University of Maryland, and was awarded a National Science Foundation (NSF) Postdoctoral Research Associateship in Experimental Computer Science. He is an NSF CAREER Award recipient, an investigator on several NSF awards, a distinguished speaker in the IEEE Computer Society Distinguished Visitors Program, and is a member of the IBM PERCS team for the DARPA High Productivity Computing Systems program.

Voltaire Names Former 3Com Exec VP of Marketing

Voltaire announced that Patrick Guay, an accomplished executive with more than fifteen years of industry experience at companies including 3Com Corporation, has joined the company as Vice President of Marketing. Mr. Guay is responsible for developing and successfully executing marketing strategies aligned with company leadership and growth objectives.

Prior to Voltaire, Mr. Guay was Vice President of Marketing at netForensics, an enterprise security management software start-up company with worldwide operations. Before that, Mr. Guay held several key positions at networking firm 3Com Corporation, including Vice President, Worldwide Marketing and Vice President and General Manager, LAN Infrastructure Division. There, he managed the company's largest business unit and was responsible for marketing, product management and engineering of data switching, security and wireless solutions. Guay led the business unit through a strategic turn-around and successfully broadened the product portfolio to include higher performance gigabit Ethernet switching and routing offerings. Other experience includes successful sales and business development roles at 3Com and Control Data Corporation.

HP Appoints Cathy Lyons as Executive VP and CMO

HP announced that it has appointed Cathy Lyons, a 26-year company veteran, to serve as executive vice president and chief marketing officer (CMO), with immediate effect.

Lyons assumes CMO responsibilities from Mike Winkler, who will focus solely on his other role as executive vice president of HP's Customer Solutions Group, in which he leads the company's sales and marketing efforts for enterprise, public sector and small and medium business customers.

Lyons, 48, will report to HP Chief Executive Officer and President Mark Hurd and join the company's Executive Council. She most recently served as senior vice president of Business Imaging and Printing within the Imaging and Personal Systems Group (IPSG). Previously, she was vice president and general manager of the Supplies business, running worldwide operations for ink and LaserJet printing supplies.
